

SAN FRANCISCO BROKER STATES TONOPAH WILL SOON BECOME THE LARGEST CAMP ON CONTINENT

"Tonopah is soon destined to become the greatest silver mining camp on the continent," declared F. W. Bishop, the San Francisco broker, this morning as he prepared to return to the coast after spending the past week here making a thorough examination of the mines of this district. Bishop was accompanied by H. C. Stratton, also of San Francisco.

"The North Star, through the recent developments, has demonstrated the existence of a new vein system to the north that will add greatly to the life of this camp. Developments in the Jim Butler have shown that a system of veins exist to the south of the proven zone and giving this zone an area of four miles wide by seven miles in length. With the additional developments as being carried on in all the proved properties it is firmly demonstrated that the camp is eventually going to conduct mining at a great depth.

"Practically very little depth has been attained by a single company in the Tonopah district, when compared to some of the real deep mining districts. In California mines are operated as deep as 3500 feet while copper properties on the east are being worked for 5000 and 6000 feet underground.

"With the present work under way and the extending of shafts to depth Tonopah has just entered the era when it is about to become known throughout the mining world as the greatest silver camp on the continent, instead of the greatest silver camp in the United States.

"There appears to be a little apprehension in the camp regarding water. Water in any camp is an indication that ore is to be found, as it demonstrates an enrichment that will be found at depth. It should be the objective of every mining company, notwithstanding its present ore bodies blocked out as reserves, to get down to additional depth and open up new bodies."

Bishop was extremely optimistic regarding the future of this district and declared that the entire mining world was watching with interest every bit of development work being conducted. He called attention to the great publicity given the Tonopah mines by mining journals, pointing out that other camps were given but casual mention, while columns were devoted to Tonopah.

GOVERNOR MILLER OF DELAWARE, DIRECTOR OF TONOPAH MINING CO., ARRIVES HERE TO INSPECT MINE

Charles R. Miller of Wilmington, Delaware, who, in addition to his duties as director of the Tonopah Mining company, happens to be the governor of Delaware, is visiting in Tonopah looking after his mining interests. The Delaware chief executive is accompanied by J. S. Austin, president of the Tonopah Mining company, and incidentally head of the Quaker City Rubber company of Philadelphia; C. A. Daniels, director and Samuel Bell, Jr., director, also of Philadelphia.

The party arrived in Tonopah shortly before midnight last night, having made the trip overland from Elly.

LONE FISH IS EXHIBITED AS SPOILS OF TRIP

TWO DAYS OUTING IS ENJOYED
BY LOCAL FISHERMEN
ALONG REESE RIVER.

Al Frevert, in his new Marlin car, accompanied by W. W. Booth and "an fish" returned last evening from a two days fishing trip in the Reese river and Stewart creek section. The fishing was good, according to the reports, although the fishermen did not meet with the best of luck. Nevertheless, they returned with "an fish" to prove that they had really been fishing.

Several hours were spent at Reese river without a bite rewarding the efforts of the anglers. Stewart creek was next visited with the same result. George Keough of the Keough ranch, taking pity on the sportsmen, mounted his horse, rode to an irrigation ditch, opened the head-gates and after securing out a minature trout, rode him (or her) down in the field and effected a capture by means of a lasso. The trophy of the hunt was presented to the amateur fishermen, and laden with the souvenir they returned to this city.

During the two days the car was driven 185 miles by Frevert, and strange to say nothing went wrong, this being his initial trip with his new Marlin.

ENFORCE COLLECTIONS OF AUTO LICENSES

District Attorney Sanders has received a communication from Attorney General Thatcher calling his attention to the fact that among his duties now is to see that all automobile owners in the county take out the state license as required by law. The district attorney desires to state that he will immediately get busy on the matter and urge delinquents to also "get busy" and secure their license at once from the secretary of state.

HABEAS CORPUS SECURES RELEASE FROM CITY JAIL

NIGHT SESSION OF DISTRICT COURT IS HELD WHEN WRIT IS FILED.

Despite the efforts of Justice of the Peace Dunsmuth to force Teddy Cox, arrested for disturbing the peace, to remain in jail over night, the defendant secured his liberty at midnight last night through the habeas corpus route. Cox, after his arrest, was brought before Judge Dunsmuth and his bonds were fixed at $1000. This amount was soon procured and when the bond was presented for approval, the amount was raised to $5000.

Cox made no effort to procure the $5000 bond as his attorney immediately instituted habeas corpus proceedings in the district court before Judge Averill. Judge Averill ordered the testimony taken in the case and at 12 o'clock ordered the release of the defendant upon the filing of the bond for $100 in the upper court. It was also ordered that the bond would expire at 11 o'clock this morning and a new bond of $2500 be substituted.

Cox was arrested by Deputy Welsh for fighting in the vicinity of the Phoenix lodging house. Two miners, who also engaged in the fight were likewise arrested and placed in the city jail. From rumors and unofficial sources it was stated that Cox was not to blame for the fight and merely acted in self defense.

The merits of the case will be determined today in the justice court when the matter will be brought up for trial.

ZABRISKIE TELLS FUTURE PLANS WEST END COMPANY

DECLARES BORAX SMITH WILL NOT LIQUIDATE SINGLE SHARE OF STOCK.

When the news of the supposed failure of F. M. (Borax) Smith reached the curb there was considerable liquidation of West End, which promptly sold down to $1 1/16 but quickly recovered on bidding from Tonopah to $1 1/4, at which figure it has held since. Col. C. B. Zabriskie, a director of the West End Co., when seen by a representative of the New York Mining Age in reference to the influence of Mr. Smith's troubles on West End, said:

"You can say for me that Mr. Smith will not liquidate a single share of his holdings of West End Consolidated, which amounts to about 1,000,000 shares out of a total capitalization of 1,500,000 shares. Mr. Smith's difficulty does not by any means mean that he is insolvent, but merely that he has found that he is carrying too many enterprises alone, and that he has invited others to share his activities with him."

"At the West End mine I can say that we have practically doubled our ore reserves within the past four weeks. We have sunk a winze on the main West End vein from the fifth to the sixth level, which, on account of the flatness of the vein, is a distance of 288 feet. This entire distance shows a good milling-grade of ore ($18 to $20 per ton) across a width of from six to as high as 18 feet, and besides this milling ore there is a high grade streak on the hanging wall from three to five feet in thickness and which yields assays of from $100 to $225 per ton. Both the milling ore and high grade have proceeded all the way down in this winze, and as this ore body has been opened for a linear distance of 180 feet on the fifth level, with the end not yet in sight, it is beyond question that we have opened up one of the most important ore bodies in the Tonopah camp."

"On the 800 foot level of the property we have four feet of high grade milling ore in the lower contact vein which carries besides several small stringers of very rich material. We also have large ore bodies opened up on the third and fourth levels, and are drifting on the 600 foot level to connect with the winze above mentioned. In addition to these ore bodies we have also recently opened up about three feet of very good grade ore on the third level of the Ohio shaft, and as these workings are away to the west of all our other developments and in entirely virgin territory, the importance of this development cannot be overestimated."

"The plans have been perfected and machinery ordered to increase the capacity of the mill from 150 to 200 tons per day. As the ore we are working in is of a much higher grade than we have heretofore treated, this fact, together with the increased tonnage, will mean largely increased earnings to the company during the coming year. Our net profits for the month of April were $27,000, and during the past year net profits were $332,000. The company has no indebtedness and owns outright 700,000 shares of the Halifax Co. out of a total capitalization of 1,500,000 shares issued, and a three-eighth interest in the Independent Silver Mining Co. In addition to these holdings we have more than $200,000 cash in the treasury."

"While the directors have as yet taken no action upon the matter of dividends yet, I can say that some action regarding the distribution of profits is hardly likely to be deferred much longer."

Estimating from the above with the increase in the mill's capacity, even though no account is taken of the new high grade discoveries, earnings for the present year should not fall short of $400,000, or at the rate of 22c per share annually on the 3c stock. Profits should, however, be still further increased through the high grade streaks referred to in the winze between the fifth and sixth levels.

OLLIE JAMES OF KENTUCKY HAS PRAISE FOR WILSON

DECLARES TAFT WOULD HAVE BEEN RE-ELECTED IF HE VETOED TARIFF BILL.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 16.—Arguing on the sugar schedule of the tariff Senator James of Kentucky praised today the president's stand on free sugar. "If President Taft had had half the courage of Woodrow Wilson, he would have vetoed the Payne-Adrieh bill and been reelected," said James.

Replying to question if he considered the sugar business of the south and west a legitimate industry, James said: "Legally I do, but not economically."

Referring to the "legitimate industry" of the democratic platform James said: "This means industrially and commercially legitimate industry, and does not refer to an industry which has had for 125 years the government's aid and protection, and is yet unable to take care of itself."

Senator James was accredited as speaking for the president and the administration. He interpreted the Baltimore platform as committing the president and the party to free sugar, replying to the assertions of Senator Ramsdell and Senator-elect Broshard of Louisiana that it did not.

HEINZE TO DEFENSE OF COPPER MINING

F. Augustus Heinze says he cannot be stopped from returning to his own (whatever that is) in an interview sent out from Washington this week. He did not really say much, but he left the way open for the inference of considerable.

"I know the copper business from the penny to the apex of what I know will be a mine," he said. "It is a fallacy to suggest that because new mines are found the industry will be injured. The more any product is offered to the world the more the world finds use for it, and today we are living in an electrical age. Copper is the very foundation for the use of electricity, and why shouldn't men find not only new mines, but more scientific means of reducing the various ores for commercial purposes?"

"It is to be regretted in one way that for several years there has been a great slump in the mining world. But no matter what has happened, it is for the best."

"I have been tangled up in a good deal of litigation, but much of it was started to make me quit, and yet I think the other fellow finds that revenge is not only costly, but retributive."
